

Monetary policy in crisis time

The aim of this seminar is to give participants a comprehensive overview of the key issues, strategies and tools for monetary policy in an environment of geopolitical and economic uncertainty.

Apply

Dates : September 30 to October 2, 2024

Apply before : August 31, 2024

Language: English

Location: Paris

Contact: Julio RAMOS-TALLADA

E-mail: monpol@banque-france.fr

Program

Content

The seminar will cover a wide range of topics, including:

- The operational framework of monetary policy and its implementation within the Euro-system
- The analytical framework of monetary policy
- Inflation targeting: indicators and expectations
- The term structure of interest rates
- Coordination, communication and transmission of monetary policy in an open economy
- Monetary policy and climate change

Participants

The seminar is aimed at central bank economists involved in analyzing the stance of monetary policy (effectiveness in fighting inflation, transmission, coordination with other policies, etc.). Ideally, participants should have a preliminary knowledge of analytical tools (theoretical and empirical) in monetary economics. Participants are expected to interact actively during the seminar, answering online surveys and quizzes, and preparing short presentations on the experience in their country.